THIRTY MILLION BANK DEPOSITORS

New York, Dec. 21.—The "campaign of education" for the reform of the country's panic-breeding banking system is the biggest non-partisan national movement ever undertaken. The business men's organization, the National Citizens' League, proposes to preach the gospel of sound banking until there is a unanimous demand from the wage-earners and wage-payers of the country for reform.

The sound money campaign, fifteen years ago, was a bitter partisan struggle; the sound banking campaign will be non-partisan. The leading Democratic members of the Congress, especially the Southern leaders, are as keen as President Taft to keep banking reform out of politics. The big men in Washington on both sides of the political fence insist that the only kind of a banking and currency bill that Congress will agree upon will be one that will safeguard the proposed co-operative banking association against both politics and Wall Street.

Hundreds of thousands of manufacturers, merchants, farmers, bankers and wage-earners will be enrolled in the league, which is now making an appeal for small subscriptions throughout the country. John V. Farwell, the Chicago merchant, at the head of the league, announces that organizations have been perfected in twenty-six states. The state presidents so far elected are as follows:

Alabama, John L. Kani, Kani Lumber Co., Birmingham.
Arizona, Hugo J. Donau, Albert Steinfeld & Co., Tucson.
Colorado, Charles Mac A. Wilcox, The Daniels & Fisher Stores Co., Denver.
Georgia, J. K. Orr, J. K. Orr Shoe Co., Atlanta.
Illinois, U. G. Orendorff, Parlin & Orendorff Co., Canton.
Indiana, Dan W. Simms, Stuart, Hammond & Simms, La Fayette.
Iowa, Robert J. Fleming, Fleming Bros., Des Moines.
Kentucky, John M. Atherton, Lincoln Savings Bank, Louisville.
Louisiana, Crawford H. Ellis, Unit-

Dear Santa Claus: Please bring me a big doll. I want a doll bed and a doll dresser and a little trunk and a little table and chair and a little doll house and some little blankets for my doll bed and pillows and some clothes and a little iron. My stockings will be hung in the dining room. I am a little girl 7 years old and I have been trying to be good. I want some candy and nuts and apples and oranges and bananas. With love, Santa, from your little friend,

MARY AGNES AGARD.

Don't forget my little sister; she wants a little doll and little doll shoes and stockings and nuts and candy and apples and oranges and bananas.

Canyon, Tex., 12-17-11.

Dear Santa Claus: If it is not asking too much I would like a new head for my doll and a doll buggy, and a doll bed, and if you have a locket and chain left I would like that, too, and will you please bring my little niece, Mildred Umphres, a little doll, as she is very small. With love,

FRANCIS REID.

The campaign of education will reach every bank depositor and every wage-earner in the country, because bank depositors and wage-earners are the people who suffer now severely from the panics caused by a bad banking system. The banks of the country now have on their books $20,000,000 individual deposits. The last returns from the Government show that the banks owe their $20,000,000 depositors the enormous sum of $16,500,000,000, which is nearly five times as much money as there is actual money in the whole country.

STOLP INTERESTED IN AURORA FACTORY

The following from a recent issue of the Aurora (Illinois) Beacon, relative to Charles Stolp, formerly proprietor of the Deand Theater, will be interesting to friends in Amarillo: Charles Stolp, former city jailor has purchased an interest in the manufacturing firm of Messenger & Parks. The former police official will be in charge of the road work for the company. He will travel in northern Illinois.

The late Texas theatrical magnate has invested a considerable amount of money in the Messenger and Parks company. He has moved his family back from Texas to Aurora and will again make this city his residence. The deal whereby he becomes a stockholder in the well-known manufacturing concern was closed yesterday.

A. E. Ketchum, who has been in charge of the road work for the company, has been made salesmanager. The firm has recently gone into the manufacturing of steel ceilings. This department will be under Mr. Ketchum.

The capital stock of the company was recently increased from $25,000 to $50,000. It is one of Aurora's best younger industries.

SCARLET FEVER PATIENT RAPIDLY IMPROVING.

The attending physician states that Ernest E. Robinson, Jr., is much improved from effects of an attack of scarlet fever. The malady it is believed, has about spent its force, and the treatment is now of such nature as indicates a speedy recovery. Dr. Robinson, who has been ill for the past several days, will probably be out today.

The Methodist parsonage is quarantined and will be so continued until the health officer has thoroughly disinfected it.
